As a freelancer I worked with several new start-ups creating their branding, as well as Dundee City Council and their new creative project Create Converge. Another client of mine was Puny Astronaut, a games company in Dundee. I worked on the UI Design for their game Sky. Previously I also worked with Split Brain Production as a games artist, creating illustrations for their game.

Greiner (previously Vigmed) is a medical device company focused on eliminating needle stick injuries within the medical field. I started working there full time in the summer of 2014, designing and illustrating an educational program. After this I was hired on a zero hour contract, making additional illustrations when needed, both for the program but also for more technical content such as safety instructions.
